Dr Mmaki Jantjies

Dr Jantjies is a leading South African computer scientist, currently working as the Group Executive: Innovation and Transformation at Telkom. She is also an adjunct associate professor and has spent several years in academia. She served as departmental head for information systems at the University of the Western Cape and North West University. She has a PhD in Computer Science from the University of Warwick.

Her passion for digital transformation and inclusion ranges from education and health technology to small business. She founded an NPO that leads initiatives to teach digital literacy skills to teachers and children. In 2017 and 2018, she was South Africa's representative to Women 20 (an official G20 engagement group to ensure that the gender considerations are mainstreamed into G20 discussions), focusing on the digital inclusion of women.