

Ms Mpho Chinyolo

Ms Chinyolo is a Development Economist with 20 years' experience in international development, academia, advisory services and consulting. She is currently a Principal Country Programme Officer with the African Development Bank (AfDB) managing a portfolio comprising of infrastructure and skills development projects. Previously, she worked as an economist at the World Bank, focusing on its African Development Indicators publication and the Africa Results Monitoring System, which measures the results of World Bank-funded projects in Africa. She also worked at the AfDB covering Somalia and Eritrea. She was an economic advisor to the President of Malawi.

Ms Chinyolo has a bachelor's degree in business administration, an MA in Development Economics, and a Graduate Certificate in International Studies (Economics) from Howard University in Washington DC. She also has an MSc in International Relations and Global Business (Joint MA International Relations and MBA) from American University and a Certificate in Project Management from Georgetown University.